Kentuckian Citizen.—Thomas A. Davis, Postmaster at Maysville, has again mounted the editorial tripod and set afloat upon the newspaper sea THE PUBLIC LEDGER, a handsome, well-gotten-up daily. To those who know Tom Davis, it is needless to say his paper is spicy and interesting. A practical printer himself, and having long editorial experience, he is thoroughly conversant with all the details of a newspaper office, and the journal never fails to be first-class when he is at the helm. Tom is like a fish out of water when not editing editorials or gobs. We wish success for the new venture in everything but his politics.

ELWOOD NORRIS of Lewis county, is a student at the National Normal University, Lebanon, O., the only one from that county. And the name of THE LEDGER was known even that far from home before it was a week old.

A CORRESPONDENT writes from Frankfort that C. B. Hill of Beattyville has been there telling anecdotes for three days. He has succeeded in retiring both Judge Lindsay and Attorney General Hendricks. We don't believe a word of it.

THERE resides in the Fifth Ward an old man who is almost blind, and whose mind has become impaired through old age, and who is said by neighbors living in the immediate vicinity of their home to be very much neglected by his family. He is said to wander from home at will, and is invariably returned by some one of his friends, and unless steps are taken to put an end to these wanderings he will eventually be run down by the trains. He has a son in an adjoining county who is a well-to-do business man, who would do well to take the old man in charge and provide for him.

It Looks Like It.

THE Louisville Times says the counties that already pay pretty much the entire net revenue of the state are the ones that are selected by the State Board of Equalization to be raised out of their boots. Do these pauper counties want the rest of the earth and want it toasted?

He Was a Know-Nothing.

Cashier Egelhoff, of the broken Masonic Savings Bank at Louisville, has finished his deposition, and its "cracker Jack," as John Smith would say. One of the depositories' attorneys says it was shown that until March, 1881, Egelhoff never owned any real estate. When asked what property he had purchased from March, 1881, to October, 1884, he could not tell from what source he got the money.

William L. Britten Dead.

WILLIAM S. Britten received a telegram Saturday announcing the death of his father, William L. Britten, at the National Military Home, Dayton, O., aged 60. Deceased was a member of the One Hundred and Eighty-second Ohio, but had resided in this city since the war and up to a few years ago. He was a blacksmith by trade and worked in the plow factories here. His death was caused by dropsy. The funeral took place at 1 o'clock yesterday, interment at the Home Cemetery.

MR. LOUIS PORT of East Maysville met with a serious misfortune on last Saturday at Cooper's Brickyard. He was attempting to get on the back of a mule when, by a sudden lurch of the animal he was thrown forward, his ribs striking upon the hames and sustaining a fracture of one of them.

OUR friend Charlie Dieterich met with a double loss during Saturday's cold snap. He had a thousand bushels of pop corn in a barn. The barn caught fire, and the corn popped and spread over a ten-acre field. A thousand-dollar calf belonging to Charlie saw the corn, and thinking it was snow, froze to death.

THE resolution directing Auditor Norman to ascertain and report to the General Assembly the number of criminal prosecutions filed and tried in each county in Kentucky during the year 1891, was certified to the Auditor, and he immediately formulated a request and self-addressed postal blank form, which were mailed to the Circuit Clerks in the state for the information desired. The object is to obtain data upon which the General Assembly may intelligently act in judicial redistricting.

THE Topeka (Kan.) State Journal gives an extensive account of a reception tendered Rev. S. B. Alderson and family by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church of that city. Besides the members of the large congregation of which Dr. Alderson has recently assumed the pastorate, there were present most of the Ministers of the city with their wives.

Dr. Alderson was for several years Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in this city and will be remembered by many friends.

EVERY little helps. IF THE PUBLIC LEDGER does no other good, it affords employment to nine or ten persons who were engaged principally in doing nothing previous to its starting. Two of these persons, who are adults, came from abroad, thus adding that number to Maysville's population. Inside of one week we have drawn enough money from distant points to pay the wages of these employees, the bulk of which wages will be spent with the merchants of Maysville. Besides, it caused the erection of a new building. If you will just sit down and do a little figuring, you will soon discover that such enterprises benefit and help to build up a city.

Card Party.

ON Saturday evening, Miss Alice Higgenbotham entertained with an exquisite little card party, in honor of her guest, Miss Lillian Duckworth of Avondale, Cincinnati. Cards and conversation were pleasantly indulged in, and a most charming evening was spent by all. The ladies were unusually brilliant and beautiful, especially so was Miss Duckworth. The ladies present were Misses Lillian Duckworth, Jennie Wood, Lillie May Thomas, Margaret Finch, Manie Hoeker and Alice Higgenbotham. The gentlemen present were: Messrs. Enoch A. Powell, Banks Durrett, F. Stanley Watson, Oscar McDougle, Will Jenkins and Dr. P. G. Smoot.

THE Kentucky Legislature has appropriated $100,000 for a state exhibit at the World's Fair on condition that the Fair will be closed on Sunday and that no liquor be sold on the grounds. The Kentucky building will probably be outside of the fence.

IN Cincinnati the H. & S. Pogue Company are about to put up on the Weatherby & Stevens property a handsome Italian renaissance building, with a stone front. It will be six stories high, 30 feet on Fourth street by 190 feet back to the Arcade. The cost will be about $50,000.

DAVID GIBSON, the well-known steamboatman, who owns considerable stock in the Wheeling and Cincinnati Packet Company, recently paid $113 00 taxes for the company. After repeated efforts to have it refunded, he brought suit and attached the furniture of the steamer Andes. Then he got his money.

THE interruption of traffic on the K. C. by the tunnel trouble throws the transfer of express matter for all points this side of Pleasant Valley to Maysville instead of Paris. Naturally this greatly increases the amount of matter handled at this office—makes a "boom" in fact,—and manager W. C. Payne wears a woolen smile a yard wide without pay.

DR. GEORGE W. WROTON, after filling an important Government position in the West for several years, has moved back to Louisa, Lawrence county. It will be remembered that, about a year ago, his daughter, whose husband was a Lieutenant in the Regular Army, was crossing a frozen stream in an ambulance when the ice gave way and she was drowned.

REV. JOHN F. MORELAND, colored, formerly Pastor of Scott Chapel in this city, has created considerable stir in Cincinnati. He was removed recently from Union Chapel by Bishop Walden and sent to Bloomington, Ind. It appears that there two "factions" in the Cincinnati congregation, and one has decided to form into a new church. Moreland has thrown up the Indiana appointment and will return to Cincinnati and run the new machine whether Bishop Walden likes it or not.

THE OLD, OLD STORY AGAIN.

A Smooth-Tongued Dude Betrays a Trusting Girl and Then Skips.

Scholastic circles in Lexington, which are quite large, are all torn up over an occurrence between a couple of pupils at the Commercial College.

It seems that Hubert Maconachie, whose father is a wealthy merchant at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, has been a student at the College for several months. He met a fellow-student, an engaging young lady named Ada Brush, daughter of an ex-Sheriff of an Indiana county. In addition to learning bookkeeping, penmanship, &c., Miss Ada learned to love the Cream City young man, and when he graduated two weeks ago, she believed he loved her. At least he told her so, and to prove his devotion he said he would remain in Lexington until she completed her course, and they would be made man and wife, and he would then return with her as his bride to his home in Milwaukee. Nearly ever hour in the day, when not engaged in her school duties, Miss Ada was in the company of her lover, and it appears that she became so thoroughly infatuated with him that when he proposed that she should accompany him on a little trip, she readily acquiesced.

She told the people at her boarding-house that she was going to High Bridge in company with some fellow-students and a number of other young ladies. She left the house with the understanding that she would return that night, but bedtime came and nothing had been heard from her. The next afternoon when she made her appearance she explained to her landlady that she had gone home with one of her lady schoolmates. The landlady, however, was not quite satisfied with the appearance of the young lady when she told her this story, and believing that she was prevaricating, she sent a trusty messenger to the schoolmate's boarding-house, and it was learned that Miss Ada had not stayed all night there, nor had her schoolmate accompanied her to High Bridge. Being a woman, the story was too good for the landlady to keep, and it leaked out.

The Principal of the Commercial College was hastily summoned, and he had an interview with Maconachie and with Miss Brush. Maconachie agreed to furnish the money necessary to pay her way home, and the young lady confessed to her principal that she had accompanied Maconachie to High Bridge, and that they had spent the night together as man and wife in a hotel at that place. The poor girl is in deep distress over her silly escapade and the falsity of her lover, who, instead of sending her home, himself decamped. It is presumed to his home in Milwaukee. Miss Brush will be sent home by the college authorities, she preferring to leave school to being expelled. The story of the lady's downfall has created no end of delectable gossip.

KENTUCKY CROP BULLETIN.

Report of the Condition of Crops for the Week Ending April 9th.

The crop season of 1892 in Kentucky opens with very favorable prospects.

The winter, though somewhat more severe than usual, was generally favorable to fruit trees and to wheat. The latter was greatly benefited by the large amount of snow which covered the ground during a considerable part of the winter, and at the present outlook its prospects are very encouraging.

Up to the present date the amount precipitation since March 1st is slightly below the normal, while the temperature is somewhat in excess of the average.

The frequent heavy rains of the past week have retarded plowing, particularly in the Southern and Western parts of the state.

Some little corn, oats and Irish potatoes have been planted.

All reports agree as to the fine condition of winter wheat. Pastures and grasses were greatly benefited by the recent weather conditions, and they are much further advanced than at the same season last year.

Tobacco beds are doing well and the plants are coming up nicely. Indications point to the planting of a very large acreage.

The members of the M. E. Church of the Sixth Ward organized an Epworth League last night with thirty-eight members.

DUKE DARNABY of Lexington was drowned while rafting on Licking river near Farmers two weeks ago, and the body was found Saturday about a mile below where he fell overboard.

A. H. CARDWELL of Harrodsburg fired a couple of shots at "Gypsy" Ike Leffman, a horse sharp at Cincinnati, because Leffman was found in a room with a female whom Cardwell claimed to be his wife.

SATURDAY the Warden of the Penitentiary accidentally learned that Mrs. Mary A. Peoples, sent from Louisville in 1889 for fifteen years for the crime of abortion, had a sum of money secreted on her person. Search revealed a $500 bill which she had carried ever since her imprisonment. It was at once taken from her and deposited to the Warden's credit, for return to the prisoner as soon as she leaves the Pen.

WE WILL SHUT THEM OUT.

The Days of the Itinerant Doctor in Maysville are Numbered.

SECTION 2. Any person convicted of a violation of the provisions of Section 1 of this Ordinance shall be fined the sum of not less than $50 nor more than $100 for each day so engaged in the practice of medicine.
